The Launch of Northampton County's New Website

By Brittney Waylen

EASTON - County Executive Lamont G. McClure announced the County is launching a brand new website in January 2024 after finalizing an 18-month collaborative design process with JesseJames Creative, Inc. of New York City.

The County is prioritizing accessibility by adding enhanced tools in partnership with recite.me. Visitors will find those tools in the upper right-hand corner of the site by clicking on the "Accessibility & Language Support" link. This will allow more information to be available to the citizens of Northampton County in the way they choose to receive or understand that information.

"Each county department has refreshed their content to ensure the new site has the most up to date information for our residents, business owners, and community partners," says Executive Lamont G. McClure. "The website is now easier to navigate and user-focused. I thank the county departments that worked on the website replacement for the past several months."

The website domain has already changed. The current website (www.northamptoncounty.org) will exist until the new website launches and then will redirect visitors to our new website, www.NorCoPA.gov.

The .gov domain is more secure and compliant with the Centers for Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency.

The County of Northampton will launch the new website in January 2024.
