When it comes to housing, little things shouldn't make a difference.

If you have children and a landlord refuses to rent to you, requires a higher security deposit, limits the use of facilities, or says you can only live in certain areas of a housing complex... that could be discrimination. And housing discrimination is against the law.

Our Bureau of Recreation and Conservation was the driving force behind DCNR's announcements late last year of investments of more than $61 million for 284 projects across Pennsylvania. They will create new recreational opportunities, conserve natural resources, and help revitalize local communities.

Our staff in the Bureau of Facility Design and Construction, long tasked with assuring safety and comfort of our state park and forest visitors, continues to work closely with all other bureaus as they focus on roads and other infrastructure, and energy conservation.

DCNR's Bureau of Geological Survey, with the support of a team of state, federal, private, and academic professionals, has initiated a program to create and maintain complete, modernized, authoritative surface water mapping for Pennsylvania.

As Pennsylvanians, we are fortunate to enjoy state park and forests systems that are the envy of many nationally. Traveling the state in 2019, I was sought out by elected officials, people in meetings, and men and women on the street. All tell me the same thing: they appreciate DCNR's excellent job and its excellent people.

And my pride in both just keeps building, fueled by events like those this past November when I and other executive staff honored DCNR workers who were veterans of military service. In seven stops, we honored 93 department employees, among the 415 who served, or are still serving.

I join staff being proud of the notable accomplishments of 2019 listed below:

- Enhance Stewardship and Management of State Park and Forest Lands
- Promote Responsible Stewardship of the Commonwealth's Natural Resources
- Benefit Communities and Citizens Through Investments in Conservation and Recreational Resources
- Operate Effectively and Efficiently
- Ensure the Future of Conservation

They adhere to DCNR's five strategic goals and reflect its seven strategic initiatives -- youth, recreation, forest conservation, climate, water, sustainability and diversity, equality and inclusion.

Since 2016, these initiatives have made great strides as they grow from, and build on, the core work our bureaus and staff perform every day. Together, all the following accomplishments have made my fifth year as secretary challenging, exciting and most rewarding.

I have no doubt 2020 will continue to be marked by outstanding DCNR employee efforts and continued valuable interaction with our neighbors, visitors and partners.

Best wishes for a healthy, happy and rewarding new year!
