Conservation Tip

Eastern Bluebirds Are Early Nesters

By DCNR

PA. - Eastern bluebirds are early nesters, and now is the time to place new nest boxes, as well as to clean and repair existing boxes

Providing bluebirds a safe nesting place is a fun and interesting way to help these important, native birds.

Nesting boxes and instructions to make your own are available from the Pennsylvania Game Commission.

Here are some tips to help your bluebird nesting box be a success:

Place nesting boxes in open areas with some trees and shrubs for bluebirds to perch in.

Plant native plants to attract bluebirds that will provide them with a nutritious food source and shelter.

Provide a bird bath or fountain with a perch nearby.

Clean out nest boxes in February and after chicks fledge to encourage multiple broods.
