St. Luke's

training often are long-term and can come unexpectedly or at the last minute.

"Denise has been very understanding and a huge help with scheduling my time off, sometimes even at the last minute," said Treible, who joined the Army in 2016. "I wanted to thank her in an official military manner and felt the Patriot Award was the most appropriate way."

A framed certificate of appreciation from the Office of the Secretary of Defense was presented to Horn, a resident of Mount Bethel, as a surprise by Roselyn Schroeder (a Marine veteran) of ESGR, in the Smithfield practice's conference room. The high point for Treible was when she attached a pin to Horn's lapel that says, "My boss is a Patriot."

According to Treible, Horn was speechless at the unexpected accolades. Colleen Poehler, Sr. director of Primary Care with Luke's Physician Group, said it is no surprise that Horn goes above and beyond for people.

"Denise has put in a lot of work to cultivate a culture that takes care of employees as well as patients," Poehler said. "I am immensely proud to call her a colleague on the Smithfield Primary Care Team."

The network's Veteran's Enrichment Team, a special committee comprising a cross-section of St. Luke's employees, is committed to ensuring that the organization honors veterans' service by providing specialized support in the areas of health care, employment and special events and programs.

St. Luke's also works with the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs to provide peer support services to veterans with the goal of reducing veteran suicide in Carbon County. The Victory for Veterans team of certified peer specialists provides outreach, counseling and education to veterans who may feel isolated, are potentially at risk for suicide and need mental health services.
