The Beat Will Go On: Senate Approves Brown's AED Safety Bill

By Senator Rosemary Brown

This week, the Senate passed legislation I've championed to help schools across Pennsylvania prevent tragic deaths from sudden cardiac arrest among student athletes.

Senate Bill 375 would require schools to have automated external defibrillators (AEDs) available at all PIAA-sanctioned athletic events and practices. It also calls for schools to develop and rehearse emergency response plans for cardiac incidents.

Sudden cardiac arrest is the leading cause of death in young athletes, and we know that access to an AED can increase survival rates by up to 70%. This vote brings us one step closer to making AEDs and emergency planning standard, not optional, in our schools.

This bill was initiated to honor the life of Greg Moyer, who tragically passed away from sudden cardiac arrest during a high school basketball game. His story is a heartbreaking reminder of why preparedness matters.

Greg's mother, Rachel Moyer, has long advocated for AED access in schools and offered heartfelt thanks for the bill's passage:

"This bill honors my son Greg, and all the children lost to sudden cardiac arrest. For every parent who has faced this unimaginable loss, this is for you. The beat will go on."

Senate Bill 375 now heads to the House of Representatives for consideration.

Mark Your Calendar: Senior Expo Returns in One Month

By Senator Rosemary Brown

I'm excited to share that we're just one month away from my annual Senior Expo, and I hope you'll join us for this great community event. This year's expo will be held at Swiftwater Elementary School, and as always, it's free and open to the public.

The Senior Expo brings together local organizations, government agencies, and health providers to connect older Pennsylvanians with important information, services, and resources. Attendees can expect free health screenings, helpful materials, raffle prizes, and refreshments, along with the chance to speak one-on-one with representatives from a wide range of programs.

Whether you're looking for information on state services, health and wellness support, or ways to stay active and engaged in our community, this event has something for everyone.

SENATOR ROSEMARY M. BROWN
INVITES YOU TO THE
