

Conservation Education at WM

By Adrienne Fors

July is always one of our favorite months because we get hundreds of campers through our education center to discuss topics like landfill design, grassland management, the importance of pollinators, to how the weather plays a key role in our daily operations!

Last week, the students participating in the Northampton County Junior Conservation School joined us for another year of programing! This year, the campers learned about grassland habitat and how different habitats can attract different bird species. Students took a walk with our habitat leader Kevin to also learn about our Bee Hive program.

The next day, over 50 Slate Belt YMCA campers joined us for a tour of the grasslands to learn about bird banding at the education center. Once the tour was complete, the campers learned about landfill construction - making their own Edible Landfill. The candy themed craft was a huge hit with the campers!
