

Johnsonville Inn

"The Inn is open for business" said Ed Curry. The Inn will be serving contemporary American food specializing in steaks, using USDA-Certified beef. Their full menu can be found on their website at <https://johnsonvilleinn.com>.

Johnsonville Inn has a rich and robust history dating back to 1848 when Jacob and Diana Stier bought the land from George and Elizabeth Beck. While the land was eventually sold to their son, Phillip in 1863, it was not until 1874 that Phillip's brother, William Gould Stier would build The Constitution House on the property.

In 1889, the Constitution House was sold to Lewis Franklin Reimer who then renamed it the Johnsonville House. After the passing of Reimer in 1939, his grandson Ockey took over the Inn in 1941.

In 1976, the property was purchased and renamed the Red Geranium Country Inn until 1980 when Dan and Ethel Paolini took over the Inn. Danet's Red Geranium Country Inn was a local staple until Dan's passing in 2008.

The Inn changed ownership a few times between 2012 and 2015 until finally landing in the hands of Ed and Donna Curry in 2019. With renovations to bring it into the future, while looking back fondly to the past, it was renamed Johnsonville Inn in 2023.
