Look Out Fire Co. #1 90th Labor Day Parade In Pen Argyl

By Michael Ortoski

PEN ARGYL, Pa. - The streets were packed last week for the 90th Labor Day parade in Pen Argyl.

Every year people come out to see all the fire trucks, floats, bands and have fun. The route wraps around town, and the crowds fill up quickly. Fire departments from four different counties, local businesses, and community groups all take part, said Grant Parsons, Labor Day committee member with the Lookout Fire Company #1.

It's also a good opportunity for all the local politicians to meet and greet potential voters in the Slate Belt. The Shriners are always a fan favorite driving their go-carts and sounding their horns. And of course, lots of sweets thrown from all the vehicles.

The celebration starts out with a carnival, food and games over the three days. It's sense of community that keeps people coming back to the parade year after year.
