

Event Celebrates Protection of More Than 4,300 Acres at Cherry Valley National Wildlife Refuge

By DCNR

CHERRY VALLEY - DCNR Secretary Cindy Adams Dunn helped celebrate the completion of a historic project conserving 4,350 acres of important wildlife habitat; and increasing public recreational access in eastern Pennsylvania.

Federal, state, local, and private partners gathered to applaud the multi-year effort that has established a core, protected area in the Cherry Valley National Wildlife Refuge, and secured more than five miles of the Appalachian National Scenic Trail.

Beginning in 2014, the Conservation Fund, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, and National Park Service, together with various other partners, set out to acquire 4,350 acres of land from Pennsylvania-American Water Company for the refuge.

These important forests along the Kittatinny Ridge support a critical north-south corridor for migratory birds and species migrating in response to climate change. They also provide critical water quality benefits for communities within the Delaware River watershed.

Smithfield Gateway Project

By Michael Ortoski

MARSHALLS CREEK - On Thursday, Senator Scavella attended the demolition kick-off event for the Smithfield Gateway Project. The project is now underway with the demolition of several structures located on the former Mosier's Dairy property.

The old farmhouse will be preserved and is planned to be transformed into a farm-to-table restaurant. Other items will be incorporated into the Middle Smithfield Community & Cultural Center which broke ground last week.

"This project also includes significant road improvements to route 209 and the construction of a new loop road that will connect route 209 to route 447. These significant roadway improvements will make this important corridor much safer for the traveling public" said Scavella.
