

WM Unveils New $48 Million Grand Central Recycling Facility in Pen Argyl, Pa.

By Michael Ortoski

PEN ARGYL, PA – WM announced last week that it has opened a new, $48 million recycling facility in Pen Argyl, Pennsylvania. The Grand Central Recycling Facility is expected to process up to 120,000 tons of material per year by leveraging advanced technology equipped with automation and artificial intelligence (AI).

"WM has invested $48 million in this facility," said Chris Farley, vice president of WM's Greater Mid-Atlantic Area, during the ribbon cutting ceremony. "This plant can process as much as 120,000 tons of material a year and produce commodities that are more attractive to the mills that turn these materials into new products."

In attendance were Rep. Ann Flood, Senator Lisa Boscola, Beth Duyssen Dr. of Slate Belt Chamber, Sara Boran from Congressman Ryan Mackenzie office who all gave citations to WM for their continued economic development in the Slate Belt.
