FAFSA Form Launches Early

By Senator Rosemary Brown

Earlier this week, the U.S. Department of Education announced that the 2026–27 Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) form is online and available, marking the earliest launch in the program's history.

If you or your student is planning to attend college, completing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) is one of the most important steps to take. The FAFSA is used to determine eligibility for federal and state grants, work-study opportunities, and student loans. Many colleges and universities also use the FAFSA to award their own need-based financial aid.

Who should complete it: Every student applying to college or career training programs should submit a FAFSA, regardless of family income. Even if you don't think you'll qualify for need-based aid, the FAFSA is often required to access scholarships or certain financial assistance programs.

Why it matters: Filling out the FAFSA helps ensure students receive all the financial aid they are eligible for, which can make a big difference in covering the rising cost of higher education.
