a WILD week IN REVIEW

Let me begin by saying that I am devastated and heartbroken by Hamas' terrorist attacks and the ongoing violence in Israel. I am mourning the lives of the innocent Israelis and Palestinians who have been killed due to this horrific violence. My team and I are continuing to monitor the situation, and my office is working with to provide support to U.S. citizens currently in the region. Read below for more of my thoughts, and additional resources.

October is Head Start Awareness Month – a time to celebrate the crucial work of child care providers around our community. I will continue advocating for the reinstatement of child care funding that recently expired at the end of the month. Ensuring all children have access to high quality affordable child care sets our kids up for success, strengthens our economy, and provides critical support for working parents. I'm working to pass my Child Care for Working Families Act, so families can access the high quality, affordable care they need.

And finally: while I wish I could have spent the last two weeks in the district as was originally planned, please know that I remain in Washington ready to vote on bills to provide necessary aid to our allies, fund the government to avoid a shutdown when temporary funds expire, and do the work you elected me to do.

Rep. Susan Wild Helps Introduce Bipartisan Resolution Standing with Israel

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Today, Congresswoman Susan Wild joined 391 of her colleagues in introducing a bipartisan resolution standing with Israel as it defends itself against attacks launched by Hamas. The resolution condemns Hamas' brutal attacks against Israel and reaffirms United States' support for Israel.

"I'm joining my colleagues in condemning the horrific violence and terrorism perpetrated by Hamas against the people of Israel," said Congresswoman Susan Wild. "I'm heartened by the overwhelming bipartisan support for standing with our ally, and I remain steadfast in my commitment to securing whatever aid is necessary for Israel to defend itself and its people to restore peace and security in the region."

The full text of the resolution can be found here.

Congresswoman Wild is a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and has repeatedly called for Congress to respond with unwavering support and commitment to providing aid to Israel.
