A Night of Creativity and Community

By Brian Fenstermaker

BANGOR - Last night, we celebrated the incredible talent of young artists in our community during the Slate of Minds Art Project Open House at the newly opened Flowering Fox Art Studio in Pen Argyl Borough!

About twenty students showcased their amazing artwork, each piece painted on over 100-year-old slate roof tiles repurposed from the Slate Belt Heritage Center - SBHC Façade project we completed this summer. The students drew inspiration from the beauty and history of the Slate Belt region, creating pieces that truly captured the spirit of our community.

This open house marked a special milestone for Lindsay Esola and the Flowering Fox Art Studio, as it was their first-ever event held inside their new studio on S. Robinson Ave. We are proud to have supported their journey by providing funding and encouragement for this exciting debut.

A huge thank you to Totts Gap Arts Institute for funding this project, the parents and community members who came out to support the young artists, and of course, the talented students who made this night unforgettable.

Check out these highlights from the event and help us continue celebrating the arts in the Slate Belt!
