The Giant Company Donates More Than 3,000 Hams This Holiday Season

By Ashley Flower

WIND GAP – The GIANT Company announced today that it will donate more than 3,000 hams to 14 partner food banks across Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, and West Virginia this holiday season. An annual tradition for the company, the ham donations bring its brand platform For Today's Table™ to life, ensuring families can celebrate the season with a staple in their holiday meals. Locally Second Harvest Food Bank in Nazareth, Pa. was selected by Giant.

“With more and more people turning to their local food bank or pantry for assistance than ever before, our hunger relief partners are telling us they expect an incredible demand for food throughout the holiday season,” said Emily Steinkamp, manager of social impact, The GIANT Company. “The GIANT Company believes every family should be able to enjoy a meal together and donating hams is one way we are able to help make that possible. It’s our hope this donation makes the holidays just a bit brighter for our neighbors in need.”

“As we gather together this holiday season, we give thanks for what we have and pray for a day one day soon when we will be able to join with all those we love. We especially remember those who have been impacted by the pandemic through illness, job loss, and those who experience hunger,” said Eric Saunders, executive director, New Hope Ministries. “New Hope Ministries helps our neighbors by providing those in need and could not do this without the support of our corporate partners like The GIANT Company. We are truly grateful for their generosity.”

Wishing Our Friends and Neighbors a Happy Hanukkah

By Senator Scavello

PEN ARGYL - Hanukkah is one the most important holidays observed by the Jewish faith, a time for celebration with friends and neighbors, and charity for those in need. I extend my warmest wishes to all of our friends and neighbors in the Jewish community during this holy holiday. The eight-day celebration of Hanukkah runs from December 10-17.
