

Jim Comunale

I remember Jim as a great family man, you couldn't have a conversation without him mentioning at least on family member. He would invite me to the kitchen in the back of the building where he was preparing food as we talked advertising for the business, local politics and politics in general.

He loved to cook anything, he shared some of the old recipes he uses that were from his family long ago. He loved making the sausage, ring baloney and those great meat sticks yum, telling me the process of smoking the meat.

He loved collecting antiques, odd antiques and guns. Although he had the gun shop in the back with new ones he liked to talk about his antique guns that he had collected over the years.

He was also a good business minded person, hard worker, good family ethics and a good sense of humor. I'll always remember him for this slogan Comunals Italian Market the only place in the Slate Belt 'Where You Get The Cannoli and The Gun.'

Rest in Pease My Friend!
