

Warren County Homeowners: Report Storm Damage to NJOEM

The New Jersey Office Of Emergency Management Has Launched A Site To Help Gather Data On Storm Damage In Warren County

By Holly Luberto

WARREN COUNTY NJ - The New Jersey Office of Emergency Management has launched a site to help gather data on storm damage in Warren County, available here: <https://damagenj-njoem.hub.arcgis.com/>

This website should be used by homeowners to report any damage caused to their homes by last weekend's storms. In regards to this site, please keep in mind:

- This site is only available to Warren County Residents.
- This only helps the process of gathering storm damage data. Entering info in the site does not guarantee federal assistance.
- This website does not supplant the normal local-county-state reporting structure. Please still report losses/needs to your local OEM officials.
- Please only report damages to residential properties. No outbuildings or businesses included in this report.
