we participated in this campaign and frankly, we were astounded by people's generosity."

Although their name has recently changed from Mary's Shelter, the mission of the Cay Galgon Life House remains the same. They provide limited-term residential support to pregnant women and mothers with newborns who would otherwise be without housing. In this stable environment, moms participate in counseling and are required to develop skills necessary for independent living. The Cay Galgon Life House also provides non-residential services to over 500 low-income women and children in the community each year through items such as food, clothing, diapers, formula and furniture.
