

80th Anniversary Of Pearl Harbor

By Senator Scavello

PEN ARGYL - Tuesday marks the 80th anniversary of Japan's attack on the U.S. naval base at Pearl Harbor, on Dec. 7, 1941. The surprise strike would cost the lives of more than 2,400 military personnel and civilians.

We mark this date knowing that while the attack decimated America's Pacific fleet, our resilience and industrial might would allow the U.S. to build a military force powerful enough to defeat the Japanese Empire and Nazi Germany.

"This war will give us much trouble in the future," said Japan's Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto. "The fact that we have had a small success at Pearl Harbor is nothing." On Tuesday, we will remember the lives lost 80 years ago, and note the fate that awaits any adversary who questions American resolve.
